

REPENTANCE CEASES TO BE FASHIONABLE

People No Longer Have Leisure to Lament Over What Is Past.

BY THE GENTLEMAN.

Repentance—once so universally practiced at this season of the year, well as on birthdays and, sometimes, on Sundays—is rapidly becoming one of the obsolete virtues. Even the "wobbling" heroine, the lady who plunged into exotic sins one day, and betook herself (metaphorically) to the sunny next, only to join the army of backsliders with greater zest than ever as soon as her fit of penitence was over. Despite copybook maxims warning the nomenclature of the futility indulging in lamentations over spilt milk, repentance has flourished whaterly, and women especially have hitherto always manifested a strong tendency in that direction.

Repentance needs leisure, and that is why it is gradually going out of fashion. People have no time to backwards, and, moreover, they now realize the futility of doing so. Like Omar Khayyam, they understand that no one can rub out what moving finger has written, and tears are powerless to undo what once been done.

The woman of today is much more likely to act on Shelley's dictum, "rather to change, nor faster, nor repent," to go straight on, doing the best she can according to the light that has been vouchsafed to her, and never wasting a moment of time in useless regrets or vain repentance. Such a line conduct is surely more courageous more likely to lead to some definite good than the other. To sit sorrowing over one's sins is a depressing and, therefore, a disheartening realization of the law of cause and effect, and a true comprehension of the truth that suffering is the inevitable penalty of sin, is worth all the penitential tears that have ever been shed.
An attitude towards life is much more likely to lead to true nobility of character than that of trying to evade the duty of one's deeds by the trappings of repentance.

That Tightness of the Stomach

Caused by Formation of Nauseous Masses, from Undigested Food Stopped by a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When you feel as if your stomach were being tightly choked—when the food is indigestible and you break out in a rash and clammy perspiration and there is a lump in your throat and you are nauseated—all you need is a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet to clear away the wreckage of undigested food in the stomach and intestines and bring you to your normal self again.
This can all be accomplished with a few moments.

Thousands of people have learned so how sure and dependable Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for all stomach troubles that they are never without a box at home and at the office, and any indication that the stomach is a little weary, they take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after each meal for a few days and the digestive organs get rested.

This is a splendid plan to follow and results in much good. The appetite is improved, the food is relished, your sleep is more refreshing, your disposition will make you indigestion, Gas, Coated Tongue, Indigestion and all Stomach Disorders and Pains—or for Loss of Appetite—Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the remedy.

Thousands freely—they are as harmless as sugar would be—and are by no means to be classed as "medicine." They have no effect whatever on the stomach except the benefits they bring through the proper digestion of food.

Drug stores sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. The price is 50 cents per box. Physicians use and recommend them. If you wish to try them before buying, address: F. A. Stuart Co., Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., and a package will be sent you free.

Women Join in The War Against Home Rulers

DUCHESS OF ABERCORN.

THE duchess of Abercorn presided at the meeting of the council of the Liberationist association held at Belfast, where the movement against the home rule bill was condemned. More than 50,000 women throughout Ireland are enlisted in the cause to defeat the provisions of the home rule bill.

RECESSION OF FLORIDA

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.

ONE hundred and twenty-nine years ago—January 20, 1783—in the course of arranging the preliminaries of the Peace of Paris, which was to acknowledge the independence of the United States of America, Great Britain threw a parting brick at the Americans by receding Florida to Spain.

Romantic beyond that of any other state in the Union is the story of the "Land of Flowers." Away back in the first decade of the sixteenth century Ponce de Leon heard of a magical fountain in the fairland in which one might bathe and be young again. Equipping an expedition he sailed in search of the fountain of perpetual youth, and on Easter Sunday, 1512, discovered Florida, so called from the fact that at the time of its discovery it was gay with its great wealth of flowers. He sailed along the coast, landing here and there to look for the wonderful fountain; but he did not find it, and returned home a feeble, disappointed old man.

A beautiful peninsula has changed its ownership as often as the chameleon changes its color. By right of Ponce de Leon's discovery it went, of course, to Spain, and when it remained for two hundred and fifty years. St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States, was founded in 1565. From that date onward the island held the title of Spanish territory. The English admirals were after it, and later on the Carolinians held the island for a time.
Finally Florida was ceded to Great Britain, in return for Havana, which had been captured by that country the previous year.

After holding it for twenty years England receded it to Spain, not because she loved Spain, but because she hated the Americans, and desired to keep them out of the province as long as possible. The Americans, however, got the better of the barbarians, even then. There were twenty-five thousand people of English blood living in Florida at the time, and immediately after the recession to Spain these all "hiked" over to the adjoining states.

As for Florida itself, it was as sure as fate that it was sooner or later to become a part of the United States. Joining our country by its strategic position commanding the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean, it could not do to let it permanently remain in foreign hands, and from the start it was the decree of manifest destiny that it must eventually come under the jurisdiction of the United States. A decree that received its logical fulfillment in the treaty of 1819, which the Spanish region discovered four hundred years ago by Ponce de Leon was ceded to the United States of America.

Miss Florida resolved to walk no more with her Uncle Sam, and when Uncle Sam went down among the orange groves to make her home, she brought her daughter with her. An awful blood reception at Orlando, but after four years of strenuous argument she was persuaded to return to the old ways, in which she seems to be walking very contentedly at the present time.

GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE FOR CRIME OF MURDER

GUTHRIE, Okla., Jan. 27.—Benjamin Cravens, who was arrested at the doors of the Missouri penitentiary a few months ago, when he finished serving a four years' sentence under the name of Charles Maust, today was sentenced to a life term in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kan., for the murder eleven years ago of Alvin Bates, at Red Rock, Okla. Cravens no longer denies his identity and says he is happy that he was not sentenced to death. "But there is one thing certain," threatened Cravens after sentence had been passed upon him, "When I get up to Leavenworth I'll get even with Bert Waltz."

Waltz, who was Cravens' companion in the Kansas prison, was brought here from the penitentiary, where he is serving a life sentence and identified "Maust" as Cravens.

Admiral Rodney

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.

RODNEY'S victory off Cape St.
Vincent 132 years ago—January 23, 1780—was one of the fine things in the way of human valor and achievement we can never afford to tuck away into the dust-covered pigeon hole of oblivion.

At the time in question England was in dire straits. The American colonies were keeping her busy in the New World. France was holding her out of revenue for her expulsion from Canada and Spain was at war with her for the recovery of Gibraltar; and between the three, France the "right little island" had its hands full.

And then it was that the value of sea power showed itself. Putting up as bold a front as she could in America, England sent her sea dogs out over the brine looking for the warships of her adversaries. Meeting the Spanish fleet of Cape St. Vincent, Rodney, bravely annihilated it.
Only four Spanish ships getting away.
With the destruction of that fleet and the capture of its admiral, the naval power of Spain was gone.
Gibraltar was safe and one of England's foes was forever eliminated from the reckoning.

But Rodney, the "fighting boy," even of the British navy of that day, was not satisfied with brushing Hispaniola from the seas, and later on he encountered the French navy under De Grasse in the West Indies. He treated it even worse than he did the Spanish armada at Cape St. Vincent. From all accounts, Rodney was a pretty pretty thing, that fight off St. Domingo. With his thirty-five sail and line the British navy under De Grasse in the West Indies.

Woman Against Slavery

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory.

A PETITION with six hundred thousand signatures, and every signature that of a woman, is a rare sort of document, as documents go in this world.
Such was the "Address to the Duchess of Sutherland" issued by the Duchess of Sutherland against slavery, and received in this country just sixty years ago today.

Coming like a bolt out of the blue, the monster petition shook the country like an earthquake. From the place of Maine to the palms of Florida, and from Plymouth Rock to the Golden Gate, the excitement caused by the address ran high, and the friends and enemies of the "peculiar institution" made the air field with their criminations and recriminations.
Their praises and their curses.

At the time of the coming of the English woman's address, with its formidable list of signatures, the "Free Soil," or Republican party, was on its first legs, and there is no sort of doubt that the embryo political organization resolved from the document invaluable aid. It is also certain that the address was not without its effect upon the Washington "statesmen" in general. Stiffening the backbones of the anti-slavery politicians, it put fresh vim into the opposition ranks, and thus greatly embittering the already heated discussions in the house and senate, it had much to do with precipitating the great conflict which was to cost a million of lives and billions of treasure.

Full of irony and paradox is the thing we call history, and the fact is nowhere more plainly illustrated than in the case of the Duchess of Sutherland.

The six hundred thousand women whose names were attached to that continent-shaking document were the daughters of the men whose cupidity and brutality had helped to plant slavery in this country, who in colonial days had repeatedly refused to do anything toward the mitigation of the accursed institution when they were earnestly requested to do so by the authorities of Virginia and the Carolinas.

In the first continental congress Thomas Jefferson tried in heroic fashion to get a bill passed which would have stopped the slave trade so far as this country was concerned, and wiped out the bondage of man to man in all the colonies, but the great Virginia's effort was defeated by the New England slave dealers, backed by old England and a small but influential minority in the south.
If the fathers and grandfathers of the women who signed the Duchess of Sutherland's address had done their duty when Jefferson was trying to get them to do it there would have been no need of the address of 1852, and no occasion for the bloody war of brothers which that address helped to precipitate.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It allays the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition.
Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. Sold by all dealers.

What Makes a Woman?

One hundred and twenty pounds, more or less, of bone and muscle don't make a woman. It's a good foundation. Put into it health and strength and she may rule a kingdom. But that's just what Electric Bitters gave her. Thousands bless them for overcoming fainting and dizzy spells and for dispelling weakness, nervousness, backache and tired listless, worn-out feeling. "Electric Bitters have done me a world of good," writes Eliza Pool, Depue, Okla., "and I thank you with all my heart for making such a good medicine." Only 50c. Guaranteed by Schramm-Johnson Drugs, five stores.

FAT VANISHES ONE POUND A DAY

BY NEW DRUGLESS METHOD

TRUE SUCCESS AT LAST

DOUBLE CHIN GOES QUICK

Two Hundred Thousand Women Made Happy With This New Knowledge Through a Copy of This Remarkable Book, "WEIGHT REDUCTION WITH-OUT DRUGS." Isn't this Convincing Evidence As to Its Value?

Here I Am After Reducing 37 Pounds in Five Weeks, With My Harmless Home Treatment.

I Looked Fat as an Ox Before I Reduced My Fat.

THE AGE OF LIVING IS THE HERIT-AGE OF THE LEAN, I WAS STOUT—AND I KNOW.

My friends were charitable and they called it obesity; others referred to me as being STOUT; but I know, it was just plain bulky weight. I was miserable.
You, too, are equally miserable if you are too stout.

To reduce your weight you must find the cause, you must get at the very reason.

I FOUND THE CAUSE—THE REST WAS EASY.

Before I succeeded, I tried everything within reason and some things beyond reason.

It was maddening—disgusting.
All I had to do was to remove the cause, and I swear under oath, that by my simple method, without drugs, medicine, harmful exercises, or starvation diet, I reduced my weight 37 pounds in five weeks, and guarantee that I can do the same for you. I do not use medicine of any kind and would never stoop to rub on the body, but a simple home treatment; even a child can use it without harm.
Through this marvelous combination home treatment, I succeeded because I had found the right way. I can now climb to the summit of Pike's Peak with ease. I could not do that until I had taken off 37 pounds of my ponderous weight.

If you are interested in your own happiness and health and figure, you will permit me to tell you how to reduce your weight "Nature's Way."

It is astonishing the thousands of grateful letters I am receiving. J. J.
Boiselle, Box 422, Great Bend, Kansas, writes that he lost fifty pounds with my harmless treatment. W. L. Schmitz, Montevideo, Minnesota, lost thirty pounds in thirty days. Mamie McNelly, Desloge, Missouri, writes that she lost sixty-five pounds with this new method, and I can send you thousands of names of satisfied customers who have given me permission to use their names. I never publish any name without written permission.

Every reader of this paper, who has the slightest interest in Miss Hamilton's remarkable new treatment, should write her promptly for all she agrees to send free, for as she has said, her book "Weight Reduction Without Drugs," is entirely new; you have everything to gain and nothing to lose; but the book is expensive and you may if you wish send a two-cent stamp to help pay postage.
